Arnerich Massena's Scott Dunbar to Moderate Pensions & Investments Panel

Experts will Discuss Defined Contribution at P&I's West Coast Conference November 4-6

PORTLAND, Ore., October 2, 2012—Arnerich Massena, an investment advisory firm managing $17 billion in assets, announced today that its managing director of advisory services, Scott Dunbar, will moderate Pensions & Investments' (P&I) panel discussion, "How to Handle Stable Value," which will cover trends in the marketplace, including a discussion of a new P&I survey on stable value. P&I Defined Contribution West Coast Conference will be held at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco from November 4 - 6, 2012.

The panel discussion is a part of the P&I DC West Conference (DC West) that will address legislation, regulation, the economy, and investment strategy. The "How to Handle Stable Value" panelists include representatives of the Oregon Savings Growth Plan, Rocatton Investment Advisors, TIAA-CREF, and BlackRock. At this year's conference, P&I will also present for the first time the Innovator Awards to visionary organizations and individuals making new and unusual changes to defined contribution plans.

In the post of managing director of advisory services for Arnerich Massena, Dunbar is responsible for coordinating the firm's investment advisory services to corporations, not-for-profit organizations, public entities, foundations and endowments, and private individuals. He has more than 30 years of experience advising organizations on investment issues and employee benefits, including defined contribution pension plans.

"Scott Dunbar is an excellent choice for P&I's defined contribution panel moderator. He has vast expertise on the subject of participant-directed plans, and conference attendees will not want to miss this panel discussion," said Tony Arnerich, CEO of Arnerich Massena.
