Karl Hausafus: Focusing Service on Community Health

Karl Hausafus, JD
*General Counsel and Chief Compliance
Officer, Principal*

Arnerich Massena General Counsel and Chief Compliance Officer
Karl Hausafus, JD, started volunteering to help with blood drives even before he was old enough to donate blood himself. That lifelong passion is now translating into dedicated service as he joins the Board of the American Red Cross Cascades Region and the Randall Children's Hospital Foundation at Legacy Emanuel.

American Red Cross Cascades Region

Karl Hausafus was in high school — too young to donate blood himself — when he volunteered to help at a blood drive for the first time. Inspired by his father, who was a lifelong donor, he has since become a routine blood donor and, since his first donation in college, has offered more than seven gallons (that's 56 pints!) of his blood to help save lives. Because he is a universal donor (O-negative blood type), his blood is crucial for healthcare workers to have available.

Karl hasn't stopped at giving blood, however. He has organized blood drives nearly every year since around 2007, the most recent being just a month ago at The Liberty Centre where Arnerich Massena's office is. Now, he has joined the Board of the American Red Cross Cascades Region, elevating his lifelong passion and dedication into a new level of service.

The American Red Cross is known for its life-saving blood donation work, but Karl emphasizes that it does much more. The Red Cross provides disaster services, safety & preparedness training, shelter assistance, and even installs free smoke alarms. The Cascades Region chapter serves 42 counties in Oregon and Southwest Washington, providing services for almost 5 million people. They respond to both large and small emergencies, including home fires, wildfires, storms, earthquakes, floods, and more, with volunteers ready to help organize shelter, provide emergency care, and help victims access important resources.

As a member of the Board, Karl will participate as part of the organization's emergency response and disaster recovery teams, assisting with local emergencies but also being available for national disaster response efforts. He will continue to promote blood drives and other important emergency preparedness initiatives.

Karl Hausafus: Focusing Service on Community Health

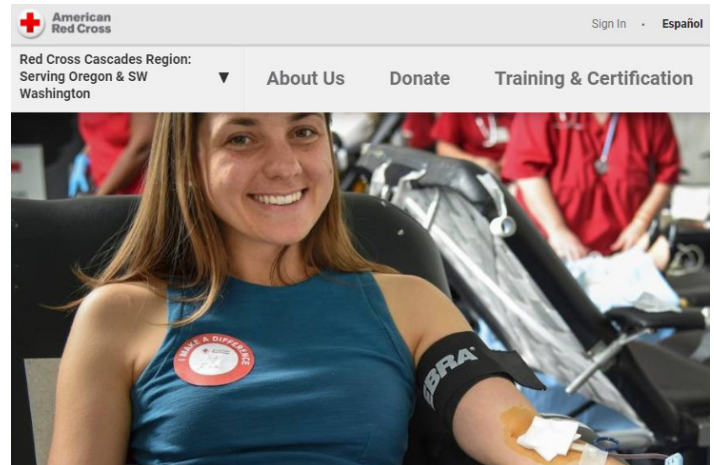

Critically, Karl will assist the organization in recruiting volunteers and connecting with donors. Those interested in helping the American Red Cross Cascades Region can donate directly to the chapter at by visiting <https://www.redcross.org/donate/donation.html/> and selecting “Your Local Red Cross” in the section asking what you’d like to support with your donation.

Randall Children’s Hospital Foundation

Karl will also be shortly joining the Board of the Randall Children’s Hospital Foundation, another organization dedicated to community health and wellbeing. He brings firsthand knowledge of the critical services the Randall Children’s Hospital provides, as his daughter required a visit there during her teen years. He is now paying forward his gratitude for their extraordinary care.

The Randall Children’s Hospital is part of the Legacy Emanuel Medical Center; it was constructed in 2010 just for children and families. RCH serves pediatric needs from infancy through teenagers. The children’s hospital is renowned for its neonatal intensive care, for which it ranks among the top ten percent in the country.

The Randall Children’s Hospital Foundation was set up to ensure that the Randall Children’s Hospital would have the support needed to provide maximum care and healing for patients and families for generations.

As a member of the Board, Karl will help make sure the hospital can continue to provide exceptional care for babies and children, making the kind of difference in families’ lives as it did in his.
